Mrs. Chaffee Hosts Grad Reception for Sophs, Parents

Graduate services Sunday afternoon, the President's and Mrs. Chaffee's reception last evening followed by the dance and this morning's actual graduation exercises have sent Boise Junior College's 1942 graduates off in a blaze of glory mingled with tears.

Reverend Blackmon delivered the Baccalaureate address Sunday afternoon at the Assembly and the Junior College A. Choir presented two musical selections.

President's and Mrs. Chaffee's reception last evening, which held from 8:00 until 9:30 in the Student Union building, was held for graduates, the members and their wives and families.

The dance which followed the reception culminated a successful season at the college, and the students of the college by a final all-school function.

Graduation exercises this morning consisted of the processional of Marshals Dan Cahill and Bill, followed by the invocation of Reverend John Billett.

Margaret Gorton next rendered a violin selection. "Life Is a Fight" was the graduation address given by Commander Bert H. Creighton, followed by the A. Cappella.

The next portion of the program, after which President Chaffee presented "A Roundup of the Year". This was followed by a number by the Women's Glee Club.

O. O. Haga, President of the Board of Trustees, next presented the diplomas; singing of the college hymn, the Les Bois and the processional closed the program.

B-Cubes were in charge of the refreshments and Valkyries served the refreshments.

Thus the school year ended. The reporter learned that the majority of the class will soon be on their way to college. As for the men, a proportion will soon be fighting Uncle Sam with the Army, Navy and Marines.

Most of those who do not go into the services will enter the defense plants of the country and help in that way.

Speaks at Graduation

Comdr. Bert H. Creighton of the U. S. Naval Reserve, was the main speaker in today's graduation exercises. His topic was "Life Is a Fight".

Award Scholarships

Five deserving students of Boise Junior College have received scholarships to various colleges and universities this spring in order that they may continue and complete their education.

Betty Wallace received the annual A. A. U. W. scholarship to the University of Idaho, while Don Barry will attend Whitman College on the scholarship which that institution has awarded to him.

Retired student body president, Hilton Dick, was awarded for his scholastic standing and school activities with the Occidental College scholarship. The College of Idaho scholarship has been granted to Annette Stewart. Clinton Ballou will continue his education at the Oregon State University as a result of his award.

Air Force Needs Ground Officers Ground Commissions Offered to Those Not Fit for Air

Young men who cannot qualify physically for aerial training in the U. S. Army Air Forces are being urged to investigate courses offered for commissions as ground officers.

Special college training can earn commissions in armament, communications, engineering, meteorology or photography in the air force.

Physical requirements are the same as the general standard for a U. S. Army Reserve commission, but less rigid than flying requirements.

Civilians who wish to qualify for armament officers must have at least two years of college credits in an accepted engineering course. An applicant for aviation cadet in the communications field must have at least two years of college, including a year of college physics. Holders of amateur or commercial radio licenses may substitute this experience for physics credits.

To qualify for training as an engineering officer, who is responsible for mechanical details of the plane on the ground, the applicant must show that he has had three years of college engineering.

An exacting and vital part of the air force is the meteorologist. To qualify for a commission in this field, the applicant must have completed three years of college, specializing in engineering or in science, remaining in the upper third of the class through the college course.

College students with at least three years of chemistry or geology, including physiography, can qualify for training in photography if they have had amateur or professional photographic experience.

Courses of training vary from 12 to 30 weeks at army technical schools. Successful completion brings a commission as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Force with a salary of $183 a month.

College students may enlist now and be deferred for further scholastic training. Details may be obtained from faculty advisors working with army air force procurement boards now visiting the colleges.

Scribe Digs Through Records; Discovers That Everybody Had A Wonderful School Season

Graduation brings such an air of finality coupled with nostalgia that the Roundup editors have ordered your reporter to look back over a year filled with some of the most enjoyable times that we shall ever have in order to convince some of us that this morning will not end the benefits which we have received from B. J. C.

The year started off with a big bang with our "Homecoming" and the gigantic bonfire and pep rally, if all of you can recall.

Next big headlines in college news was the election of Duff Ross as sophomore class president, and Bill MacFarland as frosh prexy.

Sports, too, played an integral part in our school life this year. We lost Harry Jacoby to the army, but in return gained "Stub" Allison. Our football, basketball, and baseball record is not one clean sweep of wins, but things such as sportsmanship and pleasure comprise a great part of physical competition.

Who will ever forget that cold morning when the cornerstone of the Student Union building was laid by Tom Collins and Bill Hillman? Member the long and anxious waiting for the building to be completed, and the exultation which greeted its completion?

Then Jolene Leggat was crowned "Golden Duchess" of the annual "Knights' Ball and received that gold pendant which we have seen her wearing ever since.

As a send-off for Christmas vacations, we elected Hilton Dick as our new student body president, and Earl Mathews as vice-president.

A couple of months later the frosh sponsored their "Campus Frenzy", supposedly to be held at the Student Union, if completed, but at the last moment, trans-

Jack Anacabe was elected president of the sophomore class of Boise Junior College for next year by defeating Bill MacFarlane in a recent election. Hermie Kroeger won over Bob Gossett and Vernon Brassey for the office of vice-president. June Coffin will act as secretary. She defeated Bill Farley. Greta Lindstedt will be treasurer by defeating Paul Bronken.

Student body officers elected were Charles Richards, vice-president, defeating Shirley Kroeger; Bill Wise defeating Ray Wagoner for treasurer; Connie Prout as secretary, and Donny Day and Edythe Nogleby, representatives. Earl Mathews, this year's vice-president, will become president.

W.A.A. Thin Beets

W. A. A.'ers of B. J. C. can really boast that they had an active part in saving the beet crop for Idaho. They turned the proceeds over to the club's treasury.

Girls who made the trip include Shirley Kroeger, Hermie Kroeger, June Coffin, Virginia House, Marjorie Priest, Ruth Hill, Connie Prout, Winnie Little, Greta Lindstedt, Joan Arriola, Betty Stanton, Betty Jean Wilson and Betty Bush.

FORMER B.J.C. PROFESSORS HEARD FROM

Two former B. J. C. professors are making names for themselves as officers in the United States army. C. Barton McMath, Jr., and Capt. Douglas Cruickshank left in the late summer of 1940 as reserve officers called on active duty.

Capt. Cruickshank was the head of the Engineering Department while here. He also sponsored the B. J. C. Fencing Club. At one time he was coach of fencing at the University of Idaho.

He arrived at B. J. C. in 1937 and left for Fort Riley, Kansas, three years later. Last spring he was transferred to the Orient. His wife is engaged in defense work at present. They have a four-year-old boy.

Capt. Cruickshank is still a member of the B. J. C. faculty on a leave of absence.

McMath headed the Commercial Department in his one year at B. J. C. He has two children, one of which was born soon after leaving Boise. He is a graduate of a New York university and a reserve officer while not on active duty.

Kay Geal, lovely 1941 graduate of Boise Junior College, is shown in the pose which won her the title of college photogenic queen with four others. Kay is now a junior at Oregon State College, which awarded her the laurels, and is now editor of the women's page of the college newspaper. While in B. J. C., Kay was well-known through her presidency of the Associated Women and various college activities in which she was an active member.

So Long, Sophomores

Looking back, it has been a short two years for the graduates. As this issue is dedicated to the students who won't grace this fair campus next fall, we shall summarize some of the important memorable happenings.

Every inch of sidewalk and blade of grass tells of progress. Many were the gallant lads who carried fair damsels to waiting cars because in those days we were notorious for our "mud hole." Now we have "safe" passage to all of our new and impressive buildings.

The Broncos of '41 have undoubtedly witnessed more effort and successful results than any past or future class will see. Not till we stop and actually visualize our campus of '40 as compared with the surroundings we are in today can we appreciate the fact that we have been here some time and are now better prepared and able to face the world.

Agreed the future is uncertain, but behind the clouds a day of success for each of us is present, and so we congratulate the Class of '42 with the most sincere wish for each member's happiness and ability to "take" whatever comes his way. Broncos are tough and get what they desire—you all are loyal Broncos, so carry on the fighting spirit you've gained at B. J. C.

SO LONG, BRAD!

Well, this winds it up. The last page is set up, the last proof read. You played around, you had fun but when the pinch was on, you came through with the copy. All in all, it's been swell working with you.

Thanks for the good work, and that's thirty for this year.

ferred to the Elks' Ballroom.

Who will forget the opening of the Student Union, and the first school matinee Defense Stamp dance held there under the sponsorship of the Valkyries?

We cut our spring vacation and exam periods as B. J. C. rearranged its spring schedule.

French and Spanish students then appealed to the dramatic interests of collegians in April, and the new Assembly Hall saw its first presentations of plays.

Those questions as to why the shovels were digging out on the west end of the campus were answered when we were informed that a Health Unit, one of the most modern and excellently equipped of its kind, was to be added to our expanding campus.

Then as the end of the school year drew near, the Valkyries sponsored their annual dinner-dance, the sophomore class presented its annual dance, and the Knights set a new precedent in their highly successful "Ad Dance".

Then, all too swiftly, final exams were here, and that could mean nothing more than another school year ended.

Gert's Dirt

B. J. C., J. J. C., how we've loved you so,
But now that we must graduate,
To other schools we'll go
Not gladly, though.

—Mary Livingston (revised by G. G.)

The Nokleby-Gossett announcement of their future "going steady", about three weeks ago today. Still mergin', children?

The furor caused by the return of Bill Stevens to the B. J. C. campus. Lewis "Kiss me quick, girls, I'm shy" Westbrook patiently holding Margaret and Ruth Badgley's books outside the women's lounge. What these males endure for woman-kind!

Inez Minely and Eugene Perkins reminiscing over their high school days at "Ever Since Eve", the annual senior class play.

The Valkyrie pledges who suffered untold harrowing and agony, to say nothing of defacement, at the initiation.

Bill Hillman and Nancy Robinson, looking, oh, so svelte in heavy crepe, at the Engineers' Formal.

Miriam Curtis and her sergeant friend with the blue eyes.

Bart Brassey and Merrill Barnes wowing the sophomores with their baseball ability at the Sneak. Guess Merrill made an impression on Lella Hinton at the Engineers' Formal, too, judging from all reports.

The I. K. Ad dance which involved a little of the Darwinian "struggle for existence". Junior College students we noticed interspersed among ALL the high school kids included Maxine Craven with Rich Horsfall, Bob Cushing with Lorraine Gartner, Lee Miller with Margaret Dunbar, and Tommy Brooks with Rachel Branson.

The most torrid romance of the century: Bill Farley and Betty Meagher!

Connie Prout with Gale Prince at the Engineers' Formal; Bill Wise with Gail Work.

Stella Margaret Gorton was well rewarded for her violin serenades during the Valkyrie initiation. Pitying townspeople tossed her in all $1.05.

And what's this little deal we have been hearing about Alice Ayers and Lou Alder after the sophomore sneak?

Clinton Ballou and his King Hill blonde and brunette who visited him on the B. J. C. campus.

The Coffin-Wilson combination which everyone thinks is cuter than candy-stripe gingham.

Jimmy Gray with Betty Smitchger at the Ad Dance.

The oh's and ah's which greeted the professors as they stepped out in their caps and gowns before graduation services.

Which reminds me that I'm going to be maudlin if I don't break this off short.

SOCIAL NOTES

This is farewell time of the year—farewell to sophomores, to some of the freshmen who won't be back, to some of the boys who'll soon be wearing khaki, and to members of the faculty who'll join Uncle Sam's forces. As this is a reminiscing time, we'll bring out all the "Remember When's" just to wind up the year in good form.

"Remember When" the annual mixer got everyone properly acquainted to start off the social activities of the year. Jack Vaughn took Dorothy Harrigan home from the mixer and they've been going together ever since.

Next was the Homecoming dance on October 10 when we were happy after having given Albion Normal a good beating. The first formal of the year was the Inter-collegiate Knights' "Golden Plume Ball" on November 7. Next came the Sophomore Frolic at Christmas time, December 16 to be exact.

"Remember" the Half and Half dance, when Valkyries and Knights handed out those cute programs which were half Valkyrie and half Knight? The President's Junior Birthday Ball was January 31, and it was chairmaned by our own Winnie Butler. The team of Hermie Kroeger and Nat Adams appeared together for the first time at the Sweetheart Ball on February 14.

Katherine Ivankovich registered at B. J. C. after Christmas and the Ivankovich-Anacabe combination renewed an old romance. Rosie Baker and Duff Ross attended the Freshman dance together on February 20, and they're still attending dances together.

"Blues Dance", sponsored by the pep band on March 13, offered some of the best music around the campus. At the Valkyrie "Kid Party", Clair Bush was gallant in his Boy Scout uniform as he escorted Norma Field. "Moonlight Cocktail", the spring formal which was so ably chairmaned by Bill Adams and Martha Richardson, was on April 25.
